Campaign Planning

A fun, high energy, youth involved, advocacy planning workshop. Participants will learn how young people can make a difference at school. Teams of 3 – 5 students (or more) with an adult advisor will plan a campaign or advocacy activity that can be used on the Great American Smokeout Day.

Tobacco and associated advertising has been an enemy to young people for decades. Now vaping has become the new social norm to attract new, young customers of nicotine and trendy tobacco products. The Great American SmokeOut is an annual tobacco intervention event on the 3rd Thursday of November, sponsored by the American Cancer Society. Historically, schools have participated in the event by holding assemblies, poster contests, and other anti-tobacco advocacy activities.

On-line registration for each individual, including students and advisors, is required.
